VISITORS FROM ENGLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Victor W. Charman of New York and Crescent Beach are enjoying the company of Mr. Charman's sister of N. Harrow, England, and his niece, Miss Sylvia Charman, of London, England. This is a very happy occasion as Mr. Charman has not seen his sister for twenty-five years and he has never seen his niece. Sylvia is an honor student at the Rosa Bassett School for Girls in London.

After a brief stay at the beach, a trip is planned thru the White Mountains and along the Maine coast. Then a journey to New York to visit with other relatives and the World's Fair and Washington, D. C.

Also visiting soon will be the Charman's daughter, Janet, her husband and children, Nancy and Don, from New York, and grandchildren, Barbara and Elaine, from Phoenix, Arizona.

This promises to a very happy summer for the Charman family.

STATEMENT ON THE CAPE COD CANAL FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY FROM THE OFFICE OF U. S. SENATOR LEVERETT SALTONSTALL

Mr. President, this summer marks the 50th anniversary of the Cape Cod Canal. Having once lived in a house overlooking the Canal, I am personally acquainted with the vicinity, and have been across and through the Canal many times. During World Wars I and II our defense traffic passed through it safely inshore from the submarine menace. Today it is a great boon to our nation's coastwise commerce and is well-known to yachtsmen and fishing boats. Fishermen angling for Cape Cod's famous striped bass often line its banks.

Construction on the Canal, which is the wides artificial waterway in the world, was begun under private sponsorship in 1909 and completed in 1914. Owned since 1928 by the federal government, the Canal is operated toll-free as the northernmost section of the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway. In the olden days, we thrilled to the passage of the New York steamship for which the Canal was cleared as she passed through it full speed. A convenience to businessmen, this line was a wartime casualty, but the Canal still serves coastwise traffic, decreasing the route between Boston and New York by over 70 miles.

The Canal is also famous as the gateway to Cape Cod, a region of early historical significance, and now attractive to tourists from all over the country and many parts of the world.

The Anniversary Committee estimates that more than 2.5 million people will visit the Canal this summer, many of them during the two-week celebration period at the end of July and the beginning of August. Several hundred local residents have planned an exciting program of entertainment for people of all ages. It will include a variety of contests for school children, fireworks, dancing, a tour of old Cape Cod homes, and an art show by the Bourne-Wareham Art Association. There will also be a parade, in which representatives of all branches of the United States Armed Forces will participate, and an exhibition by the "Thunderbirds", the U. S. Air Force precision flying team.

In effect, all local residents have joined together to extend genuine Cape Cod hospitality to the thousands of people who will visit the Canal this summer. These active citizens are offering not only an interesting program of entertainment, but an informative presentation which will make their many visitors aware of the importance of Cape Cod's past history and present contributions. We congratulate the Anniversary Committee and the hundreds of volunteers who have given their time and expended their efforts in order to make the 50th Anniversary celebration of the Cape Cod Canal a successful one.

DISAPPEARING ROCHESTER LANDMARKS

Split Rock, long a curiosity in Rochester, has now fallen in the way of progress. The widening of the road has necessitated the removal of this indomitable tree which refused to be stopped by the boulder through which it grew.

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

New hope for stroke patients has been revealed by your Heart Association.

In a pamphlet, "Seven Hopeful Facts About Stroke", available through your local Massachusetts Heart Association chapter, it is pointed out that although strokes are the nation's third cause of death, taking 200,000 lives annually, neither the patient nor his family should despair.

The death rate is dropping, the pamphlet says: since 1950 it has declined 22 per cent among men in the 45-64-year age bracket.

And many victims make excellent recoveries. Among two million living Americans who have had strokes, many have been rehabilitated thoroughly, and today lead normal, productive lives.

The earlier rehabilitation begins, it is explained, the better the patient's chances for full recovery. Retraining, begun soon after a stroke, helps restore speech and the use of muscles.

Modern techniques can prevent invalidism. Even the severely handicapped often can be taught to walk and care for themselves again.
